A Valuable Service

Our hat is off to The Greensboro Record for publishing a series of daily articles dealing with various religions. We feel that such a series of articles can bring about a better understanding by all people as to the various religious faiths.

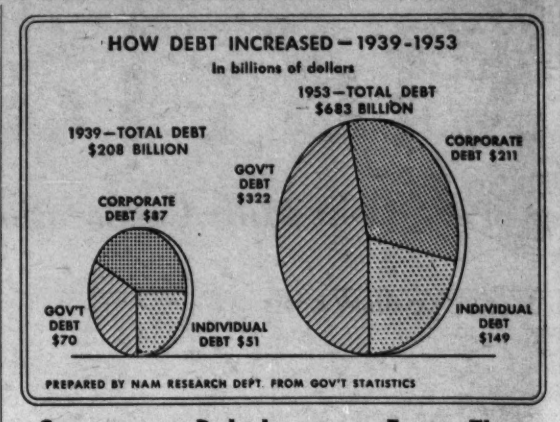
The articles have impressed us by the frank, clear statements by outstanding religious authorities as to their respective religions.

With a better understanding of the various principles of faith embodied in the different religions, there should come a greater tolerance and appreciation of people in this free country who are privileged to worship as they see fit.

Too frequently religions and religious practices are not seen in their proper light because there is a lack of understanding of their principles and their historical and spiritual background.

During these times of peril and crisis, the more thought and consideration given to religious principles the better. To many the only hope of salvation for the world rests in the universal acceptance of principles of true religion. We have been very much impressed with the tolerant attitude toward other faiths demonstrated in the above-mentioned series of articles by the various ministers participating. If that type of spirit could become universal we would certainly have a better world, and the dark clouds which are menacing the existence of all living people would be dispelled.

Since The Greensboro Record has printed the series of articles, we feel that they could render an even more valuable service for a great spiritual cause by making available the entire series in pamphlet form.



Government Debt Increases Faster Than Private, 1939 to 1953

The total debt in this country—including amounts owed by government, by corporations, and by individuals — increased more than threefold between 1939 and 1953. Furthermore the portion represented by government (federal, state and local) debt increased from about one-third of the total in 1939 to almost half of the much larger total in 1953.

It is reasonable to expect that in a growing economy debt will also increase. Put in this period total debt increased in a ratio of 3.3 to 1, whereas the actual increase in physical production was not quite 2 to 1.

Of course, the rise in the price level has meant that the real burden of the debt has not increased as much as the dollar figures would make it appear. Debts can now be paid off in dollars that are worth only 52 cents compared with the 1939 dollar. The other side of the picture is that creditors are paid back in the same debased dollars. Creditors include savings bank depositors (whose deposits are invested in government and corporate bonds and in mortgages) and insurance policy holders (whose policies are backed by the same forms of debt.)

Debt is also related to inflation in another way—as a causative factor. The expansion of government debt was due largely to the federal deficits which have prevailed over most of the past twenty years. When the government debt was sold to the banks, money was created but no goods were created for it to buy. An expansion of the supply of money without a corresponding expansion of the supply of goods inevitably leads to inflation. Thus debt expansion—in excess of the amount called for by normal economic expansion— is the root cause of inflation.

Attending the party were Howard Webster, Jean Summers, Ronnie Dixon, Lynette Stuckey, Mrs. J. A. McPherson, Mrs. Thomas Holder, Mrs. Wilbert Maness, John McBride, Manuel Williamson, John Warren, Mr. and Mrs. Allie Dean, Mr. and Mrs. David Hudgins, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Pearson, and Mr. and Mrs. William Ham.

Mr. James Sykes is visiting his family in Haw River after retiring from the United States Navy. James joined the Navy as a young man and has served for 20 years. He was retired as a Chief Warrant Officer. After completing High School, James was employed at Granite until he joined the service.

He is the son of Mr. Ben Sykes, one of Haw River's oldest residents. Paige and John Sykes are his brothers and Mrs. Winifred Jones is his sister. The family and friends are enjoying his visit very much. James has had several good offers from various companies for employment but he hasn't fully decided as to his future plans.

Lt. and Mrs. Norman Leach and children of Elizabeth City were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Leach the past week end. It was the first visit of Lt. and Mrs. Leach's new daughter to her grandparents. The little girl was born the last day of December.

Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Beatty have moved into their new home near Mebane. The Beatty's new home is a lovely "Ranch Style" brick home on the highway between Haw River and Mebane.

There is quite a lot of remodeling being done to the houses that the Granite employees have bought from the company.

Mr. and Mrs. James Roach are the proud parents of a new baby girl. The baby has been named Sandra Kay. James is employed in the Finishing Department and Mrs. Roach is a former employee of the Pick-Up Department.

Taddy Martin, Michael Faucette, Larry Alvis, Sammy Jones, and James Thomas passed their Tenderfoot Test the past week. They are working very hard in the newly formed Scout Troop.

It is very nice to see Kenneth Boone walking around again. Kenneth has been sick for several months. We hope it will not be too long before he can be back on his job again.

Mrs. Thomas Dixon is improving after having an accident in her home two weeks ago.

Mid-term examinations are over and things are getting back to normal in the school again. Several college students from Haw River enjoyed a few days at home before the second term started.

Almost 200 persons attended the study course, either one or more nights. A total of 168 persons completed the course and will receive special awards from the Baptist Sunday School board. The study was sponsored jointly by the Training Union and Sunday School of the Church. The pastor, William L. Bennett, reports that he has never seen a greater spirit manifested in a study course than was shown in this one.

What To View On Channel 2

Cordelia Kelly, First Lady of the kitchen at WFMY-TV, devotes next week on "What's Cooking Today?" (seen weekdays at 1:00 o'clock) to a variety of culinary, cultural and decorative material. Monday, Mrs. Kelly introduces Mrs. Ed Coble, who decorated her own home so well that the house became American Homes magazine's leading story! Photographs of the unusual house and tips on how to make your home a "prize-winning" one will accompany the interview.

And speaking of prize-winning, the Piedmont is having its own cakebaking contest with hundreds of big beautiful prizes. So, Cordelia spends Tuesday and Wednesday coaching housewives on how to bake the best cake possible—giving them those little hints that mean the difference between a good cake and a cake that (pardon the pun) takes the cake!

Although Abraham Lincoln's birthday party is not until Saturday, Cordilia has a surprise birthday party for him on Thursday . . . and it's a special surprise for viewers as well!

Friday is international day, with Valentine parties and world travellers. Mrs. Flossie Pleasants, a seasoned world traveller who now guides English-speaking tourists anywhere in the accessible world, drops into the WFMY-TV kitchen to help Cordelia decorate a table that will appeal to the most cynical Valentine party guest, along with giving some helpful suggestions about making Velentine parties fun for one and all.

"TV Reader's Digest," Sunday at 4:00 p.m., presents one of the "most unforgettable characters I've ever met" series. The drama revolves around Mrs. Robert Louis Stevenson, the charming divorcee who married the British author is described by him as being a "wife, mother, secretary, business manager, sharpshooter." The play shows Mrs. Stevenson as all of these things, including being the "sharpshooter" who bagged a large number of sharks with her faithful revolver.

"Mr. Lincoln" occupies the full 90 minutes of "Omnibus" this Sunday afternoon at five o'clock. A cordensation of a series presented last year, the play is presented again due to popular request. Written by James Agee, "Mr. Lincoln" stars Royal Dano in the title role, with supporting roles played by Joan Woodward as Ann Rutledge, Crahan Denton as Tom Lincoln, Marian Seldes (Nancy Hanks Lincoln) Blanche Cholet (Sally Bush Lincoln) and Joanna Roos who rounds out the Lincoln family in the role of Abe's wife Mary Todd Lincoln.

Cone Mills Club To Have Valentine Party

LITERATURE

Who is the most famous southern writer?

Edgar Allan Poe, most famous of southern writers, was born in Boston. His parents, strolling actors, were there to fill a theatrical engagement. He early started to write poetry, and then turned also to the short story, being among the first to develop the modern story form. He was orphaned before three, discharged from West Point at the age of twenty-two, disowned by his foster parents, died of a broken heart at the age of forty after the death of his wife. And he wrote—

And all my days are trances,
And all my nightly dreams
Are where thy dark eye glances,
And where thy footstep gleams—
In what ethereal dances,
By what eternal streams.

HISTORY

Who was the only man who signed four of the most famous documents at the founding of our country?

Film On Wesley To Be At Carraway Church

The new motion picture "John Wesley" is coming to Greensboro.

It will be shown at the Carraway Memorial Methodist Church on February 13 at 7 p.m., according to the pastor, Rev. G. E. White.

The feature-length film is in the new Eastman color and was produced by the Radio and Film Commission of The Methodist Church in cooperation with J. Arthur Rank.

It brings to the screen for the first time the dynamic and colorful 18th century evangelist and educator.

John Wesley's miraculous rescue from a burning house at the age of five, at the beginning of the film, forecasts the dramatic and eventful life which unfolds in this story of a man of slight stature but of impelling influence upon his contemporaries and upon history.

The English clergyman thought his venture in America as a missionary to the Indians in the Georgia colony was a failure, but it was the kind of failure which opened the door to the discovery of a religious certainty he had been seeking.

Furthermore, this discovery, in which John Wesley felt his "heart strangely warmed," led him to face mobs unafraid, and to ride 250,000 miles on horseback, changing the masses of English people from a low state of moral degradation to sturdy and happy uprightness.

Health For All

The "Angelic" Invalid

Anyone who has been an invalid or who has cared for one knows that physical illness can seriously affect the personality. Especially during an illness such as tuberculosis which may require months of treatment, the patient's behavior may change so much that he seems a different person. Unfortunately, he does not always become the angelic invalid we read about in novels.

The modern doctor thinks in terms of "psychosomatic medicine." His patient is not a machine with parts that need repair, but a whole human being. He knows that purely physical derangements, such as fever, can cause temporarily disturbed emotions. He knows also that the way a patient feels about his illness may not only keep him from following prescribed treatment, but actually make him or cause some new physical upset to complicate the original illness.

Uncertainty about himself, his future, his family is perhaps most difficult for the TB patient to endure. Unless he is reassured by the attitude of the people around him and by learning the facts about his disease, he will have to relieve the stress of intense anxiety in some way. He may do this by giving up adult behavior.

He may display childish irritability, tantrums, and reasonable demands. Other patients may react as submissive, well-behaved children. They may become over-dependent on the doctor and on receiving treatment, and resist any effort to break the bonds. Still others release their anxiety by becoming hostile and aggressive, and try to hurt themselves and others. The type of reaction, of course, depends on the basic and sometimes hidden personality traits the sick person brings to his new situation.

By facing the psychologic problems of illness frankly with sympathetic understanding, the family of the TB patient can make an important contribution to his welfare. Satisfying his mental and emotional needs can be just as important as performing the mechanical tasks of nursing.

An electronic "weather senser" to warn motorists of driving conditions ahead is being used experimentally on one section of the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

This scene from the motion picture "JOHN WESLEY" shows the 18th century English churchman breaking tradition by preaching in the fields to the Bristol miners. The 77-minute film was produced in the latest Eastman color by the Radio and Film Commission of The Methodist Church in cooperation with J. Arthur Rank. This picture was featured in LIFE Magazine.

Is It Welsh 'Rabbit' Or 'Rarebit'?

Nancy Morris made no mistake the other day when she put the caption, "Welsh Rabbit," on a recipe for a delicious concoction of melted cheese, flat beer and various tangy sauces. A lot of people think the right name is "Welsh rarebit" and that "rabbit" is the result of slurring the latter part. But these, on the authority of good dictionaries, are the ones who are in error.

But how can it be "Welsh rabbit" when there is no meat of the hare or of any other animal in it? It is a bit of grim humor come down to us from the peasant cottages of Wales. Lowly Welsh folk, the story goes, were prohibited from hunting on the estates of the nobles. So, instead of eating the rabbits they prized, they ate a dish of melted cheese and bread and called it rabbit.

An old Century dictionary includes this quotation from Macmillan's Magazine:

Welsh rabbit is a genuine slang term, belonging to a large group which describe in the same humorous way the special dish or product or peculiarity of a particular district. For example: An Essex lion is a calf, a Fieldlane duck is a baked sheep's head, Glasgow magistrates or Norfolk capons are red herrings, Irish apricots or Munster plums are potatoes.

The "rarebit" school is not entirely without support however. Betty Crocker's Picture Cookbook points out the dish became a specialty of Ye Olde Cheshire Cheese, where English men of letters from Ben Johnson to Charles Dickens conversed wittily while eating it. It could be said that the cheese sauce was a rare bit for rare wits.

AMERICA BY 1975

America by 1975 probably will be using 110 per cent more petroleum than it used in 1950, according to projections of the President's Materials Policy Commission, issued June, 1952.

The National Association of Manufacturers cites these figures in discussing 1975 usage of petroleum for motor fuel, kerosene and distillates, residual oil, lubricants, and other products.

Motor fuel consumption is expected to increase from 994 million barrels in 1950 to 2,085 million barrels in 1975; kerosene and distillates from 513 million to 1,180 million barrels; residual oil from 554 million to 1,110 million barrels; lubricants from 39 to 75 million barrels, and other products from 275 to 550 million barrels

Investment in and research by oil companies in a system of free enterprise will help insure attainment of these projections.
